STEUBENVILLE, OH—Emmaus Road Publishing announces the release this month of The Many Faces of Virtue, a collection of essays by popular writer and philosopher Donald DeMarco.

The Many Faces of Virtue is a personable collection of 48 short essays on the virtues, none longer than six pages. Dr. DeMarco breathes life to the virtues with both historical and living anecdotes from the lives of such great heroes as Mahatma Gandhi, Helen Keller, Pope John Paul II, J.R.R. Tolkein, and Emily Dickinson.

Dr. DeMarco's vast knowledge of philosophy, literature, contemporary life, and politics helps him portray the virtues so that readers get to know them personally. The easy-to-read style of this entertaining book will make it a popular choice for any reader.

Dr. DeMarco divides the book into groups of personal, interpersonal, social, and sacred virtues. While some people may not think of some of these as virtues—for instance, lightheartedness, decency, and solidarity—DeMarco shows how they contribute to personal holiness.

Donald DeMarco is a professor of philosophy at the University of St. Jerome's College in Waterloo, Ontario. He is the author of twelve other books, a regular contributor to Lay Witness magazine, and has written hundreds of articles for other publications.

The Many Faces of Virtue, 226 pages, is available at bookstores across the country, and may be ordered directly from Emmaus Road Publishing for $12.95 plus shipping and handling by calling (800) 398-5470.
